

Contents

National Diet Building	1
Structure of the National Diet Building	2
Central Entrance / Members' Entrance	4
Central Hall	5
Chamber of the House of Councillors	6
Emperor's Room	8
Office of the President / Reception Room of the President	9
Committee Rooms	10
National Diet	12
Status / Organization / Functions / Convocation and Term of Session	12
Opening Ceremony / Government Policy Addresses / Plenary Sitings	13
Standing Committees / Special Committees / Research Committees / Commission on the Constitution / Investigations in Relation to Government / Petitions	14
Relationship between the Two Houses / Emergency Session of the House of Councillors / Judge Impeachment / Secretariat and Legislative Bureau	15
Legislative Procedure	16
Area Surrounding the National Diet Building	20

National Diet Building

Dominating the beautiful avenue of ginkgo trees that runs from Ginza through Sakuradamon, the impressive building of the National Diet of Japan stands on a hill in the Nagatacho district of Chiyoda City in Tokyo. In front of it lies the Diet Front Garden, an urban oasis, and behind it are the Members' Office Buildings and other Diet-related facilities. The entire Diet complex has an air of dignity that is in keeping with the Diet's position as the political center of the nation.